Skills that you are going to strengthen with this activity:

- Linguistic competence: you will strength basic skills in English, classical languages and modern languages.
- Social and civic competence: The debate about medical specialties, diseases and treatments will promote integration and collaborative work with other European mates. Furthermore, working in international teams will improve your multicultural and multilingual competence.
- Digital competence: Search for and process information critically and sistematically. Collaboratively create and share digital content.
- Learning to learn competence: you will be able to pursue and persist in learning, to organize your own learning including through effective management of time and information, both individually and in groups through cooperative work and interdisciplinary methodology.

Assessment rubric

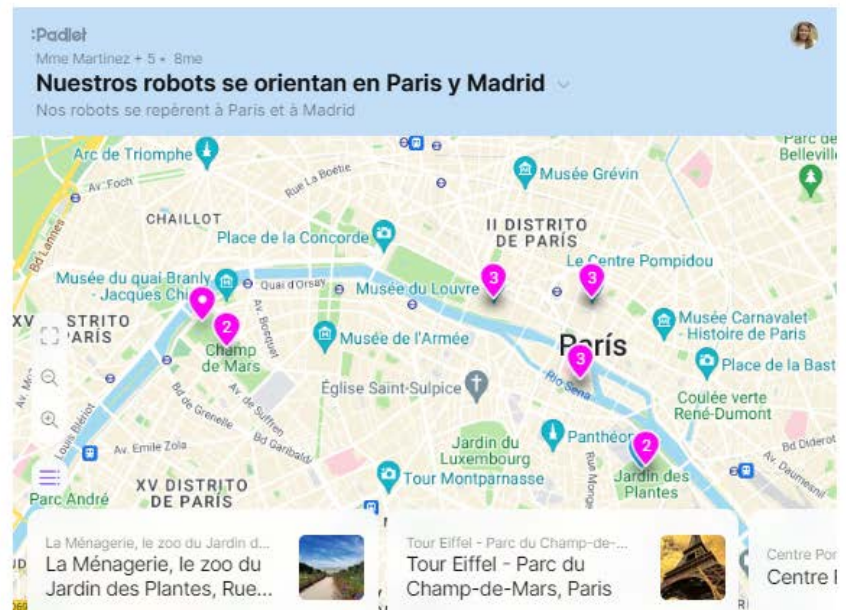

What the Collaborative guide to medical specialties, diseases and treatments consists of?

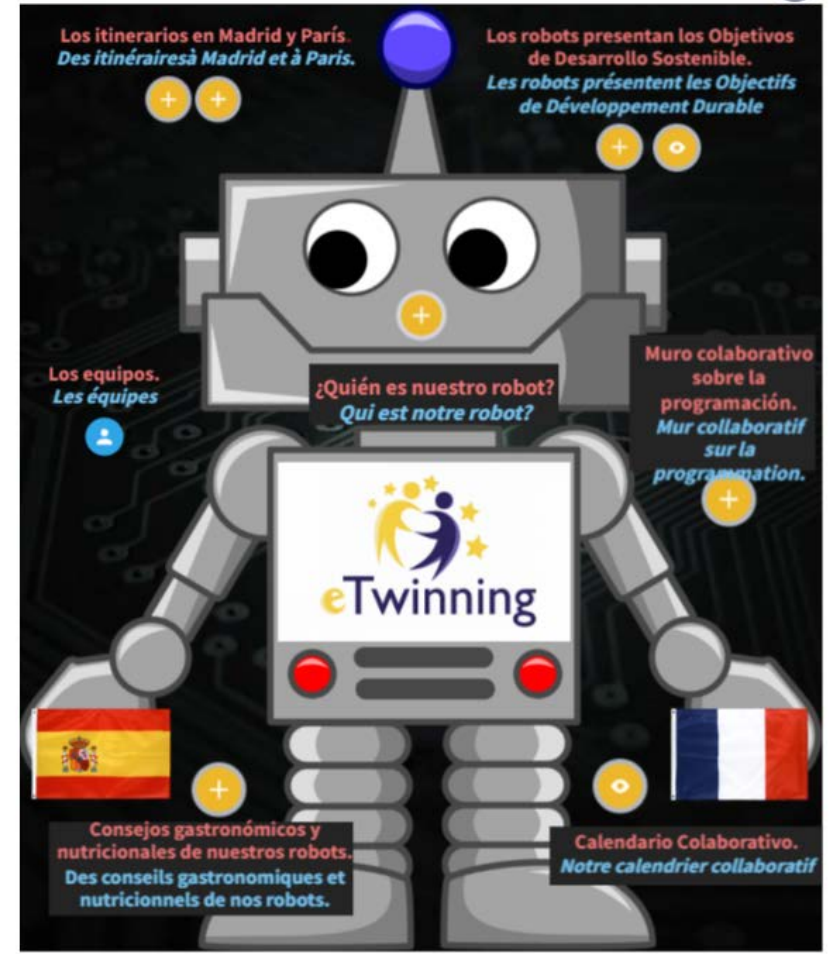

You are going to create a guide through a Google presentation an international team including posters, made with canva, on some medical specialties, diseases and treatments.
